TRAM TIEUP ENDS, COMPANY YIELDS WAGE ADVANCE

Men To Get Raise Asked And Consideration Of Other Items

COUNCIL IN ULTIMATUM

Gave Officials 3 Days To Settle Dispute Or Submit To Arbitration

The French Concession's tramway strike terminated Sunday afternoon, ending in what practically amounts to a complete victory for the men who went out.

The company has agreed to concede wage advances approximating the demand for a 20 percent increase which was made upon them and has promised in addition to consider the further concessions requested, such as the payment of hospital expenses, a readjustment of the system of fines and the like.

The conclusion of the strike which began last Thursday, came following a meeting between officials and representatives of the operating staff which was held at the Shaoshing Guild Sunday afternoon, which in turn followed an ultimatum delivered by the French Municipal Council. The traffic manager at the meeting promised favorable consideration of the strikers' demands, contingent upon their return to work, and at 5 p.m. a limited number of cars were again in service—the first to move over the company's lines in nearly four days.

Yesterday morning the whole striking staff reported for duty and by midday the usual service was once more in operation.

DEMANDS ARE MET

The salary adjustment, it was stated yesterday, will be upon the basis of actual working days per month and will compare favorably with the pay given the corresponding staffs on the International Settlement lines. This, it is figured, amounts approximately to the increase which the men asked.

Had the agreement not been reached it was the intention of the French Municipal Council to put the matter to arbitration, the Municipal body naming an arbitrator to take the problem up with the company's representatives. A time limit of three days was put upon the company's efforts to settle the strike and had it not been terminated at that time it is likely that the arbitrator would have brought the tie-up to a conclusion by warding concessions similar to those finally made, as it was known that the Council favored a wage advance for the employes, having recently given more pay to the public servants under its own control.

WHOLE PROBLEM UP IN APRIL

The whole public services question is due to come up for a threshing out early next month. The representative of the company is now on his way to Shanghai from Paris and conferences with the Council are scheduled to begin not later than April 10. It is said to be the plan of the Council to float a new company and take the water, light and tram services over unless the present company agrees to the proposals for improvement which the Municipality has outlined.

HARBOR BOARD TO BEGIN WORK HERE IN OCTOBER

Investigation Committee, Which Includes Goethals, Will Decide Port's Future

The nomination of General G. W. Goethals as American member of the International Engineering Committee to survey the findings of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board, as reported in recent dispatches, has been received with deep satisfaction here and constitutes one of the final steps toward definite action on the Conservancy's plans for harbor improvement and extension for the port of Shanghai.

It is hoped that the names of the nominees of the other four foreign countries represented on the Conservancy's advisory council—Great Britain, France, Japan and the Netherlands—may be announced soon, after which the appointments will be confirmed by the Conservancy Board. The representatives named, together with a China representative, will constitute the International Engineering Committee, Shanghai Harbor Investigation of 1921, and it is expected that they will arrive in Shanghai in time to begin their sittings on October 15. The various alternative schemes which have been drawn up by the Conservancy Board will be laid before them and upon their findings and advice will rest the decision whether the improvement plan is to involve the lower Whangpoo, the Yangtsze estuary or Hangchow Bay.

The Conservancy in asking that nomination of the Committee requested that engineers of high standing, experienced in river and harbor improvement work, be suggested and their opinion of what is the best scheme for the Board to follow out will be final.

Conservancy officials and others interested in the problem feel that with men like General Goethals in consultation the harbor development program will receive its deserved consideration and will be speeded toward its solution and they are elated over the United States' nomination. No better man, and none whose opinion could carry more weight, could have been selected, they say.

HARDING SAYS U.S. WILL HELP CUT ARMAMENT

Declares Nation Cannot Be Party To Foreign Alliances

(Special Cable to The China Press)

Washington, March 4.—In his inaugural address, delivered here today, President Harding began by congratulating the country upon the way the war situation had been met and upon the present evidence of recuperation. He said that all Americans had cause to rejoice in the fact that their national institutions had stood the test nobly.

"There comes to every American," he said, "the proud assurance that our representative government furnished the highest expression of the fact that the surest guarantee of liberty within the law, and civilisation, are one and inseparable."

The old world is now convinced, he said, of the practicability of American ideals, involving proof of the wisdom of our inherited policy of noninvolvement in old world affairs.

"We ask no part in directing the destinies of the old world," he continued, "nor do we accept responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment in each instance may determine, but our voice never will be deaf to the call of civilisation. Our country, however, can never be a party to foreign military alliances or economic commitments, or subject its decisions to any will except our own.

"We stand ready to make an offensive war so hated that the guilty country will be an outlaw at the bar of nations, also we are ready to meet with other nations for conferences and counsel, especially with a view to relieving the world of its burden of armament. We will also gladly join a world court for the adjudication of world relations, but a world supergovernment is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic."

"NO FAMINE AID;" CHINESE DECLARE WAR ON SURTAX

Wire Protest To Peking Demanding Removal Of Inland Customs Duty

SEE DANGER OF GRAFT

Chambers Of Commerce Take Action At Meetings Sunday

Chinese merchants in Shanghai will not participate in any move for famine relief funds unless the Government withdraws its order for the exaction of the famine surtax on the inland customs tariff.

This was the decision reached at the joint meeting of the Settlement and the Nantao Chambers of Commerce on Sunday. Telegrams conveying the decision of the meeting were sent to the Ministry of Finance, Peking, the Civil Governor of Kiangsu, and the Chief of the Finance Bureau of Nanking.

Mr. Chang Chen-ching, vice-president of the Settlement Chamber, presided. Mr. Yao Tse-shih, president of the Nantao Chamber urged, in view of the unconciliatory attitude of the authorities in rescinding their order for the assessment of the famine surtax on inland customs tariff, that the merchants refrain from helping the famine sufferers, much as they need aid.

Dr. F. C. Tong explained the corruption which may result in the assessment of the tax. He pointed out that the assessment was made without obtaining the consent of the merchants and was illegal. If the surtax was to be assessed through the customs authorities, he said, the famine victims may be benefitted by it, but if it was done through the Likin authorities, it was too well-known a fact that the system was too corrupt to be of any benefit to any one in China.

WOULD NOT PARTICIPATE

Mr. Yao further stated that the Shanghai merchants were planning to conduct a drive for $4,000,000. If the government remains obstinate in its decision, he suggested that the merchants in Shanghai as a class should refrain from participating in the drive.

It will be remembered that some time ago, the chairmen of the two Chambers of Commerce called on General Ho Feng-ling to explain the difficulties of enforcing the order in Shanghai because the merchants here believe that the Government would never abolish the tax after one year as was promised. Gen. Ho, however, in his recent reply insisted that the measure should be carried out as originally planned.

To supplement his argument for the necessity of the surtax, he made a lengthy statement on the Tls. 4,000,000 loan, which he said realised only Tls. 3,600,000, the balance having gone to someone's pocket which he did not disclose.

Shanghai Raising Million In Week

Shanghai is expected to raise $1,000,000 as its share in the national drive for funds to alleviate distress in the famine districts and over half this will be pledged or contributed at a mass meeting to be held at the Town Hall on Friday. The drive here will formally begin with the mass meeting and will continue seven days.

Chinese organisations will pledge $250,000 at the mass meeting, it became known yesterday, and this is the result of unusual activity on the part of Chinese ladies who have organised and set the pace for other bodies.

After the meeting in Town Hall the actual canvassing of Shanghai will be begun by a number of teams. Each team will have a certain district and by calling on practically every resident, those in charge of the drive here anticipate that Shanghai will raise more money than any other city in China.

Peking has raised $750,000 and with Shanghai, Hankow, Canton, Tientsin and other cities conducting campaigns for funds, over $2,000,000 will be raised through the national drive.

The Chinese and Foreign Famine Relief Committee here yesterday received the sixteenth remittance of $10,000 forwarded by Chinese overseas, bringing the total received to $160,000.

APPEALS FOR AID

The local Famine Relief Committee have received the following telegrams.

Message from Tientsin: C. C. Nieh, Relief, Shanghai.

Experiment Station Seeks To Improve China's Wheat

Better Quality And Greater Quantity Is Goal Of Scientists At Government School At Nanking. Iowa College Man In Charge

In view of the recent agitation in England over the question of the quality of Chinese flour the following article from Prof. E. L. Sun of the Farm Crops department at the Nanking Teachers' College, Nanking, is of particular interest.

BY PROF. E. L. SUN, M. S.

Looking for better and more wheat in Great Britain the National Association of British and Irish Millers engaged, in 1900, the service of Professor Biffen who accomplished much in the improvement of British wheat. This British example is now closely followed in China by the Shanghai Flour Millers' Association.

Flour Milling is one of the few industries that are promising and prosperous in China today. Even this industry has its own difficulties. Chief among them are first, the quality of the Chinese wheat is generally poor and, second, the quantity produced in China is insufficient to meet the increasing demands.

Though large quantities of wheat are produced in the southern section of China, the southern wheat is too soft to yield the first grade flour and the color of the cereal is not up to the standard. The flour made from it cannot consequently command a good price and is unable to compete in the market with foreign godds.

To improve the quality of wheat in China is, therefore, a very important problem that awaits immediate solution. Either to acclimatise in other parts of China the Shantung varieties that are relatively better in quality and color, or to introduce into China the standard varieties of other countries is up to future investigation to decide.

QUANTITY BIG PROBLEM

The problem of the quantity of wheat produced in China is at present even more important than that of quality. In recent years, the home consumption of flour is greatly increasing due to the rapid development of other industries. Foreign markets again look toward China for supply. Europe, Australia, and the East Indies all offer fair price for Chinese Flour, and, as a consequence of this, the quantity of flour exported last year exceeds that of any year preceding. But to the disappointment of the Chinese millers, the output of flour is limited by the supply of wheat.

Because of these difficulties, the Shanghai Flour Millers' Association looks toward science for help. A project of wheat investigation was inaugurated last year.

The Agricultural Department of the Government Nanking Teachers' College has been entrusted with this investigation work. The Shanghai Flour Millers' Association contributes every year a certain sum of money, six thousand dollars for the first year, to the Teachers' College; the latter agrees to take up the investigation work on behalf of the former. This mutual agreement was put in force last July. A tract of land comprising of one hundred and six mow in the city of Nanking was set apart as the Wheat Experiment Station. Professor C. C. Yuen of the Farm Crops Division, Agricultural Department, Nanking Teachers' College, a graduate of Iowa College of Agriculture, was appointed Director of the Station, while other members of the teaching staff of the Agricultural Department of the College all are working in co-operation with him.

Director Yuen, a man of much farm experience, is encouraged by the zeal of his coworkers and is working enthusiastically in discharging his duties. The outline of the work as sketched by him is to be comprised of three branches, namely, survey, experimentation and extension.

STARTED LAST YEAR

Survey and experimentation were started last year. The object of survey is twofold: first, to ascertain the possible extent of area in which wheat may be profitably grown, and, second, to inquire into the native methods of culture and the economic conditions of wheat growers, so as to furnish a working basis for planning methods of future improvement.

Experiments of various kinds were formulated, chief among them being variety tests, fertilising experiments, and experiments of breeding, disease prevention, method of cultivation with various implements.

"The present area of the Station," Director Yuen remarks, "is far from being sufficient, and a few thousand moos of land are going to be added to it for multiplying good seeds and for carrying on more extensive experiments."

As to the extension work, it should be postponed one or two years. Then, the main effort of extension will be devoted to the general distribution of good seeds and to dissemination to the rural public of facts ascertained by experimentation. The ultimate aim of this branch of work is to bring wheat production in China to its maximum efficiency and profit.

In a word, such an undertaking as this wheat investigation is much needed in China for the improvement of her agricultural conditions. The Shanghai Flour Millers' Association should be congratulated for the far sightedness in the adoption of the wheat investigation project, which will in the near future give much benefit to the Chinese wheat industry as well as the Chinese Nation at large.

LAST BERLIN PROPOSALS REJECTED, SAYS REUTER

'Not Acceptable' Is Verdict Of Allied Council

TO YIELD IN END

Von Simons Admits Penalties Will Stand If Necessary

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 7.—Reuter learns that Lord d'Abernon (British Ambassador to Germany) and M. Loucheur (French Minister of Liberated Regions and Reparations) interviewed Dr. von Simons this morning, after which it is stated that they communicated the outlines of the new German proposals to the Supreme Council at Downing Street. It is stated in French quarters that these proposals are not regarded as acceptable.

London, March 6.—Interviewed by the Sunday Times, the German Foreign Minister, Dr. Von Simons has outlined the reply he will make to the allies tomorrow.

While insisting that Germany is prepared to pay as much as she can, he will state that she objects to the proposed term of forty-two years and regards the figures fixed by the Paris Agreement as unacceptable. If the Allies are immovable, he asserted, Germany will submit to execution of the sanctions.

Dr. Von Simons, while hoping that a compromise might be reached, made it clear that he would not make any new financial proposal. It is expected that the Allies will reject the German plea.

London, March 7.—It is understood that the German proposals which were considered by the Allies last night were drawn up by the Minister of Finance, Herr Schroder, and mainly comprise the acceptance of the amount of payments for the first five years, laid down by Paris, subject to revision afterwards; the increase of the twelve percent export tax to thirty percent; the issue of an international loan of eight milliards of gold marks and the conclusion of commercial treaties virtually providing for the abolition of inequality clauses. The foregoing is conditional upon Germany's retaining Upper Silesia.

OFFER UNACCEPTABLE

The Allies recognised that the offer was quite unacceptable, but on Mr. Lloyd George's initiative agreed to a project to include the payment of fixed annual sums of three milliards of gold marks for thirty instead of for forty-two years, the levying on the importing countries of a thirty percent tax on German exports, with a fixed guaranteed minimum estimated to produce between six and eight milliards after five years. The Reparations Commission would be empowered to determine the amount necessary to bring the total of the new project up to the Paris total, namely, 226 milliards.

Paris, March 3. Delayed.—The Reparations Commission has called the attention of the German Government to the fact that the account of payments or deliveries to be made before May next under Article 235 of the Peace Treaty already shows a deficit of twelve milliards of marks gold and asks the German Government how it expects to meet its obligations.

London, March 6.—Interviewed by Reuter's representative, Dr. Simons, the German Foreign Minister, indicated that the Germans were submitting new proposals tomorrow.

GREAT ACTIVITY

London, March 6.—The Greatest activity prevailed in Reparations Conference circles tonight. An unexpected meeting of the Supreme Council lasted two and a half hours and adjourned for an hour. It is assumed that the Allies had learned the line of Dr. von Simons' new proposals which are believed to offer a basis for discussion and tonight's meetings were the outcome of this.

The German delegation has up to the present not signified its views on this point.

London, March 6.—The political correspondent of the Sunday Times, in referring to the difficulty experienced by the Allies in discovering a method of collecting the German war indemnity without injury to themselves, says he understands that Mr. Lloyd George will offer a suggestion tomorrow whereunder the fifty percent payment in respect of German exports to the Allied countries would be impounded by the Allies exchequers and pooled for the common benefit of the Allies. The German Government, by means of increased taxation, would reimburse the German exporters thus mulcted.

It is pointed out that the sums with which they were thus reimbursed would remain in Germany.

London, March 6.—Germany continues to maintain a show of defiance toward the Allies reparation proposals. Reuter's Berlin correspondent states that the Reichstag met at its own desire yesterday to hear the German Chancellor's report on the situation as regards the negotiations at London. Herr Fehrenbach, in a guarded statement reiterated his previous assertion that Dr. Von Simons had been instructed not to sign an engagement which it would be impossible to fulfill.

Paris, March 6.—M. Doumer, the Finance Minister, has joined the Premier M. Briand, in London. The latter today conferred with the French experts after their meeting with the German experts. Later Marshal Foch had an interview with M. Briand.

M. Barthou, the Minister of War, has returned to Paris from London. He expressed complete satisfaction with the results of his visit to England, adding that the Allies were in perfect agreement.

Tls. 9,000 Awarded By British Court In Damage Action

Judgment for Tls. 9,000, with costs, was given in favor of the plaintiff by Judge Skinner Turner of the British Supreme Court yesterday in the damage suit brought by Mr. H. E. S. Pickering aginst Mr. A. E. S. Thompson for wrongful dismissal.

Plaintiff's claim was for Tls. 9,570 and £622, alleged to be damages suffered through breach of a five and one-half year contract made last May and terminated in January this year. In giving judgment the Court stated that, the defendant having admitted wrongfully terminating the agreement, the only question to determine was that of the amount of damages. The amount awarded was based on 18 months' salary calculated at Tls. 500 per month.

Mr. E. L. Hartopp appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. J. H. Teesdale for defendant.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, March 5.—Representatives of the Chinese Eastern Railway and M. Rebikoff, the Assistant Minister of Transport of the Far Eastern Republic, yesterday evening signed an agreement at Manchuria Station, for the reopening of the Manchurian-Siberian frontier. The Manager of the C. E. R. at once issued instructions accordingly and the first through train left Manchuria Station this morning.

The terms of the agreement are approximately those forecasted by Reuter on March 2; viz;—division of Manchuria Station into Russian and Chinese sections with separate stations and strict discrimination as regards technical equipment and rolling stock. The sanitary regulations of the C. E. R. will be enforced on all trains, owing to the plague epidemic.

Roads Committee Will Make Trip To Wusih Tomorrow

The Executive Committee of the Roads Committee of the Pan-Pacific Association will journey to Wusih on Wednesday, March 9, to view the roads there and study their method of construction and particularly, to learn, if possible, how much they have actually saved the people of that district in money and labor. The Committee members are to be the guests of Mr. Yung Chung-ching, a wealthy flour merchant of Wusih who took a large part in the building of the roads in Wusih. Mr. Yung is a member of the committee. The trip will be interesting as well as instructive as this is the season for plum blossoms for which Wusih is famous.

Dr. C. T. Wang at the meeting yesterday reported that Roads Committee had met five or six times since his report at the November meeting of the Board and much headway had been made. At the last meeting Mr. Powell, Chairman of the Sub-Committee on Survey, submitted a plan for a road to the Shanghai hills, Kashing, Shihmen, Hangchow, past Mokanshan, West Taiho, Eshing, Wusih, Changso, Kiading, Shanghai—a total of 260 miles. This route would take in some of the most beautiful and prosperous cities in the country.

A branch was also proposed from Eshing to Nanking. The idea was that the road should not run parallel with the railway but touch it at places. Roads from the other main cities could easily be built to the railways. Printed lithographic maps of this section of the country showing where roads will run will be made. The route, as suggested, is not fixed as yet but is subject to change.

The roadway, as planned, would be 50 feet wide—actual 30 feet center—and ten feet on each side to prevent houses encroaching on the road. The roads would be built as inexpensively as possible, the surface being metalled with the growth of traffic.

Say Rice Profiteers Are Boomeranged

Would-Be Exploiters Reported To Have Been Stung

Disaster has befallen at least a few of the would-be rice profiteers here according to Chinese reports.

The story is that previous to the Chinese New Year a number of rice dealers, who also act as brokers and maintain hongs in Chapei and Nantao, contracted for between 400,000 and 500,000 piculs of the cereal with dealers in Soochow and other places, intending to hold it until after the holidays, when they expected to reap a big profit through advanced local prices and by exportation.

The price of rice failing to rise and the local authorities having increased their vigilance to detect exporting, the disappointed exploiters stood to lose between $70,000 and $80,000. And when the up-country dealers sent representatives to Shanghai to press for payment and the taking of delivery they found the brokers had absconded.

An appeal to the Chinese Chambers of Commerce to take measures to secure large quantities of rice which are expected to be released for sale soon and thus prevent profiteering by independent buyers was made Sunday when the Woosung-Shanghai Rice Stability Association held a meeting.

The Association also passed a resolution that the Civil Governor be petitioned to take further measures to prevent the exportation of rice.

Peking Resents Lu's Opposition Against Election

Considers Chekiang Tuchun Incompetent To Discuss Legislative Matters

The Peking Government will ignore the opposition raised by General Lu Yung-hsiang, the Chekiang Tuchun, against the new election on the ground that the recent protest filed by him was prompted by his motive to secure the Civil Governorship, according to The Chinese press. His failure to obtain this remunerative post is considered by Peking as the cause of his lengthy argumentation on the propriety to postpone the election.

The administration maintains that it was not for a military man like Lu to interfere with the question of election and Lu is not competent to discuss questions of legislation. Peking will remain firm on its decision, it says, and will not be moved by verbal challenges especially from one who is not conversant with the situation.

To off-set the influence created by Lu's telegram, the Government will prompt a more influential Tuchun to adopt a countermeasure against him, it is reported.

This is the first time since the inauguraton of Hsu Shih-chang that the Central Government is known to have taken a strong stand against a dissatisfied Tuchun. Lu, it will be remembered, lost a great deal of his popularity with Peking on account of his allegiance with the Anfu leader, Tuan Chi-jui.

The matter of land sales to foreigners in the Loonghwa district has come before the Military Governor and steps have been taken to prevent any such transactions, according to Chinese reports.

It is stated that Chinese land brokers, impressed with the possibilities for development in the district, which borders on the Whangpoo, have been buying heavily recently so that prices have advanced some $400 per mow. It was also reported that a Chinese employed by a foreign hong had purchased 100 mow for the erection of a cement works, and following this report the government ordered the tipao to hold up any transfer of the property until it could be established that there was no foreign interest in the transaction.

OIL
American Producers & Refiners Inc.
Offer you
AN INVESTMENT OF RARE MERIT
combining with it
A speculative element of unlimited possibilities.

Because they have an assured supply of crude oil. Because the oil is high in gasoline content. Because they own their own refinery and drilling machinery. Because the oil is encountered at a depth of less than 1000 feet and consequent drilling costs are low. Because they have a market waiting for the refined product. And because of many other natural advantages those who are familiar with the LaBarge-Piney Oil Fields of Wyoming consider them to be America's most valuable oil territory; and the American Producers & Refiners Inc. believe they are offering an investment which will yield a permanont income

Would it interest you to have a small sum of money invested in a manufacturing enterprise and to know that every dollar may multiply itself forty or fifty times within a few months.

Wyoming is now one of the six leading States in oil production and is believed to be destined to become the leader. Almost every county in the State is oil producing. The LaBarge-Piney fields, where our lands are situated, are proven lands and produce the highest grade of crude of any fields in America.

The business of the American Producers & Refiners Inc. is primarily refining of crude oil and will consist in taking oil from our own and adjoining wells and making it into gasoline and the other products and by-products of the crude oil. The supply of the crude is assured for many years to come and the market for the refined product is a local one. Lincoln County in which our property is located, and the surrounding territory will absorb the entire output of our refinery. The stock of the company may be worth many times its par value within a year after it is issued and this due entirely to the refinery and not depending for one dollar on the land values held by Company. If the land proves up equally with the lands surrounding it, as we naturally expect it will there will be almost no limit to the possibilities.

A study of the following table will give some idea of the profits of the refining business. The estimate of earnings is based on a refinery similar to ours, having a 300 barrel daily capacity, 42 gals, per barrel, the oil sold for local consumption in and around the district where it is produced.

LAND HOLDINGS.

This company holds under lease 1933 acres of land. Forty acres of this land is proven oil land and has been appraised by experts as worth one million dollars. Drilling on this forty will start in the early spring. It is surrounded by producing wells from which a paraffine base oil, of high gasoline content, is obtained. The oil sands have a thickness of over 100 feet and are reached at a depth of between 578 and 1000 feet. It is estimated that this forty acres alone when properly drilled will supply our refinery for thirty years to come. The balance of the land has been selected by careful reference to the anticlinal structure of the field which is now considered by leading oil geologists of the country as the greatest potential oil field in America. The company plans to develop these land as rapidly as possible and run through its refinery the product of its own wells. The companys holdings will be added to from time to time as opportunity permits and such lands will be acquired as may be considered, by its officers, as sound and worthy of development.

POSSIBILITIES FROM A SPECULATIVE STANDPOINT

During the coming summer many drilling rigs will be working to prove the value of our extensive holdings. Eminent geologists, who have studied the structure and formations, do not hesitate to say that the whole structure, forty five miles long and fourteen miles wide, is oil bearing. They know that it produces oil at one end of the structure and they also know that it is unbroken for forty-five miles. If it proves up as the geologists claim that it will, it will outrival any oil discovery ever made in America. The development period will be very rapid, and the coming summer will tell all that is to be known. If the lands are all proven to be oil bearing they should make every dollar invested in this company worth $50.00 or more. If they prove to be an absolute failure and entirely dry the stockholders will still have the profits of the refining business and from the lands already developed sufficient oil is assured for thirty years to come.

Some idea of the immense profits which may be realized can be gained by a glance at the following table which shows what the investment of one hundred dollars actually did realize in the following companies:

With a state there is still another sideration. If help comes late, nation's moral sources of pro- tion must suffer, which, especi- y in the present stress of social ment, are I daresay of still higher significance than the material ones.

I have an ardent wish that the Austrian people may get an opportunity in good time to prove to the world that they are an industrious people whose sense of dignity cannot bear the idea of continuous assistance from abroad. Vienna has been called a Capua. This comparison, which has done her a world of harm, is wrong. Vienna, the home of a culture still high even today, had became great not by a life of contemplation and enjoyment, but by work.

In respect to the method of foreign help, the details will have to be settled by the conferences which will regulate the terms of the loan to Austria. Some form of financial control has been mentioned by the English press in connection with helping Austria, I understand that control means taking technical steps for safeguarding the creditors.

This is a purely business question and since we are, of course, willing to repay, it need not cause us any disquiet.

I believe the High Powers do not intend any guardianship going beyond this. The enlightened statesmen who deal with the Austrian problem know from the history of their own countries that growth of industrial production and political liberty cannot be torn apart.

CO-OPERATION A NECESSITY

Unified effort with the other new States about us is just as necessary as it has been for the past centuries. The Danube still flows the same course, the mountains and valleys still take the same directions, and force commerce and traffic into the same routes.

Co-operation is a necessity for Austria, but the state of our neighbors' economic life shows that it is a necessity for them as well. One difficulty is that this necessity has not yet been sufficiently recognised by all of them. Some still believe that by a system of shutting themselves off against us the rivers of economic advantage may be dammed up and caught in an isolated national basin.

Lasting economic benefit cannot arise from the practise of such a system, but only from regular exchange and proper division of work, and by realising that to advantage the foreigner is by no means to disadvantage oneself.

For the time being another hindrance is the fear of the new States to endanger their political independence by too close economic connections. Former antagonisms, too, are still at work. We Austrians do not in the least desire more than any of our neighbors to sacrifice our independence, but we intend as little as they do to be harnessed together politically.

Since the foundation of the new republic two years ago the Austrian people have learned thoroughly to appreciate the feeling of being relieved of internal national strife, and they do not desire to repeat the experiences of the past. The real danger to political independence consists in mutual economic isolation rather than in economic rapprochement

We shall be the first to ask to stop private assistance for the Austrian people from outside, as soon as we are given the opportunity to work. It is not the deep gratitude which we feel to the originators and patrons of that assistance which oppresses us, but the sense that it would be ever so much better if we could help ourselves.

SCHWAB'S GOLD BOX RECOVERED

Police Say Two Prisoners Confess Stealing $10,000 Casket Sold In Berlin

CONTRABAND ON SHIP

Many Valuables Seized From Members Of Crew Of The Mongolia From Germany

New York, Dec. 17.—The mystery of the theft of a gold humidor, valued at $10,000, from the home of Charles M. Schwab, West Seventy-third Street and Riverside Drive was cleared yesterday by the arrest of George Williams, a seaman on the Mongolia, and Einer Dietrichson, formerly assistant to the butler in Mr. Schwab's home.

The arrest of Williams was made just after the Mongolia docked here on her return from Hamburg, Germany, following receipt of information from the Berlin police of the recovery of Mr. Schwab's humidor in that city and of the existence of a smuggling traffic in stolen American jewels and other valuables in which members of the crew of the Mongolia were suspected of being concerned.

Dietrichson's arrest followed a long examination of Williams by Detectives Regan and Brierton and Inspector John F. Coughlin at police headquarters. Both men, who gave their addresses as 67 Third Place, Brooklyn, a rooming house, were said by the police to have made confessions.

Because of the information received from the Berlin police, and because of the publication in The New York Times of November 30 of an article telling of the suspicion that the crew of the Mongolia had been engaged in smuggling, the customs authorities kept close watch on the ship, and Inspector A. O Hokenson of the Surveyor of the Port's staff seized $3,000 worth of jewelry, silks, laces, brandy, rum and drugs, most of which was found in the possession of stewards and was seized as not being included in the ship's manifest.

News of the recovery of Mr. Schwab's gold casket, which was presented to him by the City of Baltimore in recognition of his work near that city during the war, was received here in despatches from Berlin on November 29. More specific information than that published was received by Inspector Coughlin, who had Detectives Regan and Brierton ready to arrest Williams the moment the Mongolia docked.

Dietrichson said he had been employed as "second man" at Schwab's home and that it was part of his duty to lock up the place at night, close the safe and take care of the silver. According to the police, Dietrichson stole the gold humidor on the night of December 9, 1919, and gave it to Williams. The latter, they said, sold it in Berlin last May for 15,000 marks. The detectives said that Williams, according to their information, gave Dietrichson only $10 of the amount of the sale.

Dietrichson told the police that he had been in the employ of many wealthy New Yorkers, including members of the Vanderbilt and Bliss families. He said he left Mr. Schwab's employ soon after the theft of the casket, and during last Summer was employed as steward on the yacht of Joseph P. Widener of Philadelphia.

Mr. Schwab was said to have been unaware of his loss until notified by The New York Times, when a cable message to this newspaper told of its recovery in Berlin. At first Mr. Schwab said he did not believe there had been any robbery, but the checking up of his valuables revealed the absence of the casket.

Williams and Dietrichson were each held on the charge of grand larceny, and will be arraigned today.

It is expected that the arrests may lead to the discovery of disposing of other stolen valuables. The seizure by Customs Inspector Hosensen indicated that some of the crew of the Mongolia had undertaken an extensive business in smuggling.

Among the articles seized were fifteen diamond rings, gloves, silk stockings, feathers, aigrettes, laces, watches, bottles of rum and brandy and 500 vials of drugs from Germany. The greater part of the jewelry was said to have been concealed in the pockets of some of the ship's stewards, who were apparently awaiting opportunity to sell it before the Mongolia start on a trip back to Hamburg on Thursday.

Officers of the Hamburg denied that members of the crew were engaged in smuggling stolen jewelry into Germany. They declared that most of the men were honest, and that it was very difficult to sell in this country German paper currency in which such smuggled goods would be paid for, because of the low rate of exchange.

MULE'S KICK FATAL

It Breaks Leg On Man's Head And Has To Be Shot

Huntsville, Ala., Jan. 20.—The claims of Joseph Jones of Merrimac to hospital attaches here that he had "some bean" was borne out today when his story that he had been kicked by a mule on the head and that as a result the animal was lying helpless with a broken leg was investigated and found to be true.

Jones said his way was blocked by a stray mule and he made a threatening gesture to frighten it away. It, however, met the assault with a well directed kick to the brow. The mule's leg was broken in two places. It was pronounced a helpless cripple and shot.

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED.

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing, and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions in China.

TERROR REIGN RENEWED BY SOVIET, REPORT

Wholesale Arrests Made In Moscow—Jews Fear Pogroms

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—Sensational reports of the spread of anti-Soviet risings in Russia continue, but there are obvious difficulties of gauging the real situation. However, Reuter's correspondent at Stockholm says that the papers regard as reliable the report that the Social Revolutionaries hold Kronstadt, which is the center of the revolutionary organisation. Many commissaries of the fleet have been arrested.

Messages from Moscow state that the Soviet has started a reign of terror. Wholesale arrests have been made and the Jews there fear a recurrence of pogroms.

According to a message from Helsingfors, the aim of the insurrection is to establish a constituent assembly.

A telegram from Bukharest says that the Soviet Government has ordered the closing of the Russo-Rumanian frontier, owing to a violent revolt at Odessa where there are only two faithful regiments of Chinese engaged in a stern fight in support of the frontier troops, who are retiring on Odessa, while the Soviet is concentrating Chinese troops at Moscow.

General Koslovsky, mentioned in a previous message from Moscow as having mutinied, is an artillery commander.

London, March 7.—The situation in Russia remains obscure. No big revolutionary success has been reliably signalled but it is clear that the Soviet government is most perturbed and is doing its level best to pacify public feeling by distributing more food.

A telegram from Riga communicates a wireless message from the Kronstadt Revolutionary Committee to the effect that the crews of all the Baltic Fleet vessels there have recognised the anti-Bolshevik government and have requested their officers to remain at their posts. It is also stated from Kronstadt that sailors attacked the Soviet troops who were occupying the Petrograd ditsricts. The Soviet garrison at Oranienbaum repulsed and shelled the attackers, whereupon the Revolutionary Committee sent four warships which bombarded the Soviet fortifications.

Chinese To Discuss Matter Of Naming Advisory Committee

Ratepayers' Meeting Called For April 4 On Appointment Matter

Following the recent disagreement between the Municipal Council and the Chinese Ratepayers' Association over the appointment of the Chinese Advisory Committee to the Council the organisation involved has called a general meeting of the Chinese ratepayers of the Settlement, to be held in the Town Hall at 3 p.m. on April 4.

In connection with the delay which has been caused in the approval of the nominees for the advisory body the Nanking Road Street Union held a meeting Sunday at which it was decided to appoint a committee to act with the candidates in putting through any measures which may hasten their definite appointment to office. It was pointed out that many important matters are before the Council in which the consultation of the Chinese body is important and that the installation of the advisors should be accomplished without further delay.

The Street union named a delegation of ten men to attend the scheduled ratepayers' meeting on its behalf.

The First Victrola is Still in Active Service

STILL playing the world's best music to the delight of its owners. It was the first cabinet-style talking-machine ever made, and it was built to last. The construction of the Victrola is so simple, the mechanism operates so accurately and smoothly, the materials and workmanship are of such high quality, that a Victrola seldom needs attention or adjustment.

This is one of the many reasons why you should be sure the instrument you get is a Victrola. Imitations possess neither the tone quality nor the lasting quality of the Victrola.

MAJOR S. L. WELD ORDERED TO NEW POST IN STATES

Officer Here With Filipino Baseball Team Leaves Manila Soon

Major Seth L. Weld, assistant department intelligence officer, has been ordered to the United States for duty. Major Weld will leave Manila on the transport Thomas about March 15 in company with a number of other officers who have been relieved from duty in the Philippines. He will be assigned to station in the United States from the Ninth Corps Area in San Francisco.

Major Weld has served continuously in the Philippines for many years both as an enlisted man and a commissioned officer and during that time has probably formed more friendships among men in civilian life than any other officer.

He is well known in Shanghai and came here with the 4th Philippine Infantry Baseball team two years ago.

Major Weld is the only holder in the Philippines of the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest decoration the United States government can bestow. The action in which he won the coveted decoration occurred in Paz, Leyte, on December 5, 1906 when he was known as Corporal Seth Weld, Company L, Eighth U. S. Infantry. The citation which accompanied the award and which is contained in army general orders reads:

"With his right arm cut open by a bolo, went to the assistance of a wounded Constabulary officer and a fellow soldier who were surrounded by about 40 Pulajanes, and using his disabled rifle as a club, beat back the assailants and rescued the party."

Kelly And Bancroft Shine In 1920 Fielding Figures

According to the official fielding averages of the National League, George Kelly of the Yanks leads the first basemen with a percentage of .994. He had the greatest number of putouts, 1,759; the most assists, 103, and most total chances, 1,873. Morris Rath of the Reds heads the second basemen with a percentage of .977, while Rogers Hornsby made the most putouts, 343; assists, 524, and also the greatest number of total chances, 901.

Charles Deal leads the third basemen with a percentage of .973. Norman Boeckel made the most putouts, 219, and the greatest number of total chances, 518, while Milton Stock compiled the most assists, 300.

David Bancroft, besides leading the shortstops with a percentage of .955, had the most putouts, 362; assists, 598, and greatest number of total chances, 1,005.

William Southworth leads the outfielders with a percentage of .991. Ed Roush made the most putouts, 410, and also had the greatest number of total chances, 439. A tie exists for most number of assists, Ross Young and Clifton Heathcote having 26 apiece.

Otto Miller leads the catchers with a percentage of .986, and also made the most putouts, 418. Ivy Wingo caught the greatest number of games, 107; George O'Neil had the most assists, 153, and Vernon Clemons the greatest number of total chances, 531.

Wilbur Cooper heads the pitchers with a percentage of .989. Arthur Nehf made the most putouts, 18; Grover Alexander had the most assists, 105, and Burleigh Grimes the greatest number of total chances, 119.

Of the four triple plays in the National League Pittsburg executed two, an odd feature being that Wilbur Cooper while pitching July 7, and again on August 21, began both triple plays for Pittsburg by catching fly balls batted by Mack Wheat. The figures follow:

CHINESE TEAM OUT FOR TITLE IN BASEBALL

Will Make Strong Bid For Premier Honors In International Series

BUT TWO QUINTETS IN England And China Formally Enter; United States Will Be Strong

China will be represented in the coming international basketball series by a crack aggregation which will include the present Y.M.C.A. five and the best of the school and college stars from nearby institutions.

The team formally sent their entry to the Sporting Editor yesterday and announced that a meeting will be held at the Y.M.C.A. physical department rooms tonight when all members of the "Y" team and all men who have reported for the series are urged to attend.

The men will elect a captain and manager tonight and will then discuss plans for the series. Regular practice sessions will be held and it is expected that the Chinese team will make a good bid for the international championships.

England and America will have crack teams. England is to be represented by the Rowing Club five, which is due to get the pennant in the Foreign League, and the United States has a big gang to draw from. The trouble with an American team is that the men do not get together and when a game is on the five is composed of as many individual stars and there is little team play. U.S. Warships On Way To Costa Rica

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 5.—Advices from Panama state that the Costa Ricans have captured Guarito and that the Panamanians have retired to Rocas del Toro, leaving dead and wounded behind. American warships are proceeding to the Pacific and Atlantic sides of the disturbed area to protect American interests there.

Washington, March 5.—Secretary of States Hughes has sent notes to the governments of Panama and Costa Rica demanding the immediate cessation of hostilities. It is understood that the notes convey the impression that America is ready to enforce peace if such should prove necessary.

Washington, March 6.—President Harding is keenly interested in the conflict between Panama and Costa Rica and today held a long conference on the subject with Mr. Denby, the Secretary for the Navy, and Mr. Weeks, the Secretary for War.

Panama and Costa Rica have replied to the recent notes of ex-Secretary of State Colby offering the good offices of the United States, but Costa Rica's reply is described as unsatisfactory. It is reported that Costa Rica is still maintaining troops in the disputed territory.

Ungern's Force At Urga Well Supplied

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 6.—The Chinese official observer at Manchuria Station reports that sick and wounded Russian officers belonging to Baron Ungern's force are arriving from Urga, and are not being subjected to detention. Officers report that Ungern's forces are well supplied with ammunition and foodstuffs, and that new supplies are constantly being received from Ataman Semenoff's old military base at Hailar, which is commanded by General Burakoff.

According to the Chinese observer "it is an amazing position that warfare against the Chinese in Outer Mongolia is being regularly fed from a railway station in Western Manchuria, and that no steps are being taken by the Manchurian authorities to seize Semenoff's depots and motor-lorries at Hailar, or the dumps along the Hailar-Urga caravan road."

CHURCHILL LEAVES

HAD A HARD TIME GETTING HER TEETH

UNTIL THE DOCTOR RECOMMENDED BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Many mothers endure agonies of mind when seeing their babies suffer the tortures of teething. Yet neither mother nor child need go through such misery, as many parents have proved, among them Mrs. David Lee, of Lindsay, Ontario, who writes:—

"My little girl had a hard time getting her teeth. She was quite feverish; her tongue was coated, her breath offensive, and she vomited curdled milk.

"On the advice of our doctor I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she began improving at once. She had not slept well at nights for about three months, and I was almost worn out caring for her. Now her food digests properly, her breath is sweet, her tongue clean and she is quiet and good. I can strongly recommend the Tablets to other mothers as they did my baby good when nothing else did."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are obtainable from chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

In The U. S. Court For China

Doong Nyi Benevolent Assoc., Plaintiff, vs. Henry S. Grew et al., Defendants.

SYLLABUS

1. Conflict of Laws: Land Titles. While the jurisdiction of this court is "exercised in accordance with the laws of the United States" they include international law, one of whose principles is that questions of title to land, including prescription, are determined by the lex rei sitae.

2. Id.: Prescription. There being at present no Chinese law of prescription, the principle cannot be applied to the case at bar.

3. Id. Evidence found sufficient to show that defendants are without interest in the land involved and without standing to object to its registration by plaintiff.

Messrs. Rodger and Haskell, by Mr. Rodger, for plaintiff.

No appearance, contra.

Lobingier, J.:

This is an action to quiet title to a tract of land situated in the International Settlement of Shanghai known as Cadastral lot No. 204. Plaintiff's chairman testifies that plaintiff has been in possession thereof over 50 years, without meeting adverse claims, exhibits a deed dated 1868 and a series of tax receipts, the earliest of which is for 1891.

It appears, however, that on March 19, 1862, the lot in question was registered at the American Consulate in Shanghai in the name of Henry S. Crew and it is to extinguish his claims and those of his heirs and successors that this action is principally brought.

If this land were located within the United States and the plaintiff had occupied it for the time and under the circumstances disclosed in the evidence here produced, a decree would undoubtedly be rendered in plaintiff's favor as having acquired title by adverse possession or, as it is termed in the civil law, prescription. The time required varies in different jurisdictions but in none of them is it as long as plaintiff shows its possession to have been and under the latest congressional enactment on the subject it cannot exceed 22 years even as against those under disability.

But the land is located in China and most writers on international law hold that prescription, as one of the incidents of land tenure, is governed by the lex rei sitae.

"This follows" observes Bar "not, as the popular belief generally goes, as a merely dialectical or merely logical necessity springing from our conception of the law of things or of territorial sovereignty, but as a real necessity, resting upon the intolerable inconvenience of any other doctrine."

Now the lex rei sitate, in this case, is the law of China. It is true that the jurisdiction of American courts in China must be exercised "in conformity with the laws of the United States." But so the civil jurisdiction of British courts here is exercised "in conformity with English law" and said courts nevertheless apply the local law to land and its incidents, including prescription, because, as was declared by Lord Talbot before the middle of the eighteenth century, "the law of nations was part of law of England." It is equally a part of "the laws of the United States" and we are prepared, accordingly, to apply the Chinese law of prescription to this case.

But here we encounter a new difficulty; for our researches disclose that there is no such law. The highest Chinese tribunal has declared:

A Mandate dated the 10th day of March in the first year of the Republic declares that application of the former law means application of that portion which continues to be in force. Now, since the provision contained in the Tsing Code to the effect that claim for further payment or redemption is barred after 20 years was repealed when the Code was revised, it cannot be applied.

Our existing law has no provision as regards prescription. What is provided in the Draft Civil Code relating to acquisitive prescription as regards ownership and to extinctive prescription as regards the restoration of the right of succession is inapplicable.

The Civil Code has not yet been promulgated, and, in the absence of express provisions, it is not for the court to say what kinds of rights should be subject to prescription in regard to their acquisition and extinction and when the prescriptive period begins to run and when completed.

It would appear, then, that while there was once a prescriptive law of some kind in China, it has been repealed and that, since those provisions of the proposed Civil Code which are intended to replace it have not come into force, there is now a legal hiatus.

But while we cannot, for that reason, adjudicate a title in plaintiff by prescription it does not follow that no relief can be awarded against defendants. The leading one, as we have seen, had the land registered in his name in 1862. But on December 12 of that year he signed a paper declaring the property, to "belonging entirely to Chuping" and transferring to the latter any title possessed by the former.

This, coupled with the long period during which none of the defendants has asserted any claim to the lot seems conclusively to show that they are without interest therein. We feel justified in so finding and it is accordingly considered and decreed that defendants have no interest in said cadastral lot 204 (numbered 114 in the land registry American Consulate General at Shanghai) and no ground for objecting to the registration thereof by plaintiff in the name of a trustee selected by it.

As the service was constructive there will be no award of costs.

By the Court,

CHARLES S. LOBINGIER.

and half a dozen others are good bets for the Yankee quintet but they must get together for practice sessions.

Little has been heard from Canada, Korea or Portugal regarding their entries but each country will probably be represented.

As soon as the entries are all in Charley Glaque is to call a meeting of the various team captains and managers when final plans for the series are to be made and a schedule arranged.

SUE FOR POSSESSION

An action for the recovery of possession of premises at 53 Kiangse Road was begun in the British Supreme Court yesterday. The action is brought at the instance of Messrs. Foster, McClellan and Co. as owners and Emily Moore is named defendant. The claim alleges that defendant has refused to move after due notice.

Mr. J. B. Davies appeared for plaintiffs and Mr. Reader for the defendant. Pleadings were ordered.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paragoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of what to your children unless you or it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CHANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
C. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

Laou Kung Mow Co. Meeting

The twenty-seventh ordinary general meeting of the Laou Kung Mow Cotton Spinning and Weaving Company was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of Ilbert and Company, when 4,757 shares were represented.

Mr. E. C. Pearce, chairman, said: "Before commencing with the business of the meeting, I should like to place on record the regret we all feel at the loss the Company has sustained in the death of our colleague on the Board, Mr. Chung Liang-yue. Mr. Chung Liang-yue had been a director of the Company since its inception. His sound business capabilities in all matters pertaining to the Company's affairs will be sadly missed.

"The Directors' report and accounts having been in your hands for some days, we will, with your permission, adopt our usual procedure and take them as read.

"We have passed through another year of very profitable working and the Board have pleasure in submitting for your approval today a report, which we trust will be regarded as satisfactory, showing as it does a balance at the credit of profit and loss account of Tls. 857,882.86. From this sum your board declared an interim dividend of 15 percent made payable last August which absorbed Tls. 120,000, leaving for distribution today a sum of Tls. 737,882.86, which your directors recommend to be dealt with as follows:

	Tls.
To pay a final dividend of Tls. 50 per share	400,000.00
To place to depreciation as stated in the report	61,000.00
To place to development reserve	140,000.00
To place to dividend reserve	40,000.00
To bonus to foreign staff	5,650.00
To charity donations	6,500.00
To general managers' commission according to agreement	80,294.08
To balance to the next year's acount	4,438.78
	Tls. 737,882.86

"If you will kindly refer to the accounts, on the asset side you will see that a sum of Tls. 32,774.35 has been added to your buildings account: this represents the cost of a new three storied godown, which brings the total cost of your Mill Buildings to Tls. 182,774.35 from which it is proposed to deduct a sum of Tls. 20,000, for depreciation, bringing the cost down to Tls. 162,774.35.

"A new item of Tls. 140,901.91 under the heading of land, represents the cost of about 38 mow of land referred to in my last year's speech. On this land we have commenced building new houses for our staff and also some native houses for our mill hands; under these two headings we had up to December, 1920, expended Tls. 20,000 and Tls. 5,000 respectively.

"The present cost of our spinning machinery representing 40,000 spindles stands at Tls. 205,110.75, from which your board recommends a sum of Tls. 30,000 to be written off, thereby reducing the book cost of this item to Tls. 175,110.75. This plant has been kept in good repair; during the year a sum of Tls 34,836.06, as shown in the account, being expended in repairs and renewals. To this spinning plant we are adding this year a further 5,000 spindles and have already remitted against cost of same Tls. 56,382.56. These additional spindles we hope to have in working order during this year.

"Under the heading weaving machinery we have additions amounting to Tls. 77,426.89, bringing the total cost to date of this plant up to Tls. 132,462.89 for 500 looms. From this sum your board proposes to write off Tls. 10,000.00.

"Referring to the liability side of the accounts, you will notice the sum passed at our last meeting to development reserve of Tls. 150,000 has been practically absorbed by the purchase of land. To this development reserve account your board recommends that a further sum be added of Tls. 140,000.

"Your Board is also recommending a further sum of Tls. 40,000, to be added to your dividend reserve fund, bringing this account up to Tls. 120,000 or 15 percent on your capital.

"By the passing today of your directors report and accounts you will have for your capital of Tls. 800,000 a mill consisting of 40,000 spindles and 500 looms at a cost standing in your books as follows:

	Tls.
Mill buildings	162,774.35
Spinning machinery	175,110.75
Weaving plant	122,462.89
	Tls. 460,347.99

"In addition to these figures we have some 38 mow of land costing Tls. 140,000 odd and have already expended Tls. 56,800 odd toward an additional 5,000 spindles. Your plant therefore stands in at a most reasonable figure.

"As regards the buildings:

"In view of the fact that for the most part these are now 25 years old, your board considered it advisable to hold a survey to ascertain whether they were in any way affected structurally through old age. Messrs. Moorhead Halse and Robinson were accordingly instructed to inspect our buildings. I am pleased to be able to inform you that their report has been received and states that after their examination no serious defects in structure were disclosed and that their condition is in every way satisfactory.

"In our recommendations we propose with your approval to present a bonus to our foreign staff, not including our mill manager who benefits in a good year under his agreement with the Company, a sum of Tls. 5,650.00 approximating three months' salary. Your foreign staff, I may mention, have worked throughout the year to the entire satisfaction of the board and I am sure they will appreciate this monetary recognition of their good work. Your Chinese staff have benefited by a bonus given them before the Chinese New Year holidays.

We also recommend donations to Charity as follows:

	Tls.
The London Hospital	3,500.
The Shantung Road Hospital	1,500.
The St. Luke's Hospital	1,500.

which needs no comment from me, and I feel sure will meet with your hearty accord.

"With regard to the lease of our property, the first period of 25 years terminates this month. We shall in future have to pay our landlords 8 percent per annum on the Municipal assessed value of our property which will amount approximately to Tls. 15,500, per annum, based on the present assessment, as against our previous rent of Tls. 6,000, per annum.

"With regard to the future, our additional 300 looms are gradually coming into work and we hope to have the extra 5,000 spindles in operation during the year.

"With a peaceful China, free from political intrigues and with an efficiently controlled soldiery, the merchants of the interior would be able to devote themselves to trade without fear of the risk and exactions which now prevail, thereby insuring the future prosperity of the country which should reflect beneficially on our local industries.

"You will be glad to hear that since the China New Year holidays, the yarn market has been normally healthy and our clearances have been quite satisfactory.

"With these remarks, Gentlemen, I think I have covered everything calling for comment in the report and accounts, but before proposing the resolution for the adoption, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any points that you may wish to know.

The following resolutions were passed:

That the report and accounts as presented be passed. Proposed by Mr. E. C. Pearce seconded by Mr. Edward I. Ezra.

That Messrs. K. Yebara and R. W. Wells be re-appointed Directors of the Company. Proposed by Mr. E. Lester Arnold seconded by Mr. H. W. P. McMeekin.

That the appointment of Mr. Yu Pao-san to a seat on the Board is hereby confirmed. Proposed by Mr. L. M. Bytagh seconded by Mr. D. Turnbull.

That the next annual general meeting be held during either the month of February or March 1922. Proposed by Mr. E. C. Pearce, seconded by Mr. R. W. Wells.

Following the ordinary general meeting an extraordinary general meeting was held.

Mr. Pearce said: In proposing Resolution No. 1, which has been read to you, there is but little for me to say upon the subject except that by reducing the denomination of your shares from Tls. 100.00 to Tls. 10.00 each, it gives smaller capitalists an opportunity of investing in the shares and consequently a wider spread of shareholders in the Company. It is difficult at the present enhanced cost of our shares for the general public to take an interest in a small lot of shares, but by reducing the nominal value as suggested in the resolution an opportunity is afforded the larger shareholders to dispose of a portion of their holdings should they desire to.

Unless you have any questions to ask, I have much pleasure in proposing Resolution No. 1, reading as follows:

1.—That each of the existing 100 Taels shares in the Company's Capital be divided into ten fully paid up shares of 10 Taels each.

The resolution was seconded by E. I. Ezra.

Mr. Pearce then said: By the fact of your having just passed Resolution No. 1, it becomes necessary to alter certain wording in the Articles of Association; these alterations have just been read to you and merely imply multiplying the number of shares, where mentioned in the Articles, by ten.

I therefore propose the adoption of Resolution No. 2.

2.—That the Articles of Association of the Company be altered in the manner following:

(a) In Article 71 the words "eight thousand" shall be substituted for the words "eight hundred."

(b) Article 80 to be amended to read as follows: "80—Upon a show of hands every Shareholder personally present shall have one vote. At a poll every Shareholder shall have one vote for every share held by him up to one hundred shares, and he shall have an additional vote for every fifty shares beyond the first one hundred shares up to five hundred shares, and an additional vote for every one hundred shares beyond the first five hundred."

(c) In Article 92 the words "five hundred" shall be substituted for the word "twenty-five."

Mr. Ezra also seconded this resolution.

Health, Beauty And The Home

The Better Kitchen

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

WHAT is the kitchen? Is it not the workshop of the home? If so, should it not then be arranged so that the work may proceed with the least possible expenditure of time and effort on the part of the worker?

The kitchen should be small, compact and arranged to avoid all possible "waste motion." Good sizes are 9 by 11 feet, 10 by 12 feet or, in large homes or in the country, 16 by 18 feet; but the smaller the room and the more centralized its equipment the easier the work will be. The detached pantry of olden days is far better replaced by a built-in or portable kitchen cabinet. The elimination of even the butler's pantry in the small home gives more floor area to more important rooms, and places the work table and utensils at the place where they are most used, instead of 30 or 40 feet away.

One of the most important new ideas concerning the kitchen is that of the "grouping of tools." This means that all preparing tools, such as mixing bowls, beaters and food supplies, as well as pans, should be located in, over or near the table where they are used. In this way the worker loses no time getting and carrying back the tools she needs. This idea of grouping can extend to placing the pots and skillets near the stove, arranging the coffee pot and coffee supply, the bread and bread knife, etc., where they will be convenient to each other. The further this idea of grouping is carried the more efficient the work will be.

In many kitchens we find the sink next to the stove. But we do not work from a sink to a stove, but from a table to a stove. Really stove, sink and table should all be within a few feet of each other. The table, however, or preparing cabinet, is best situated alongside the stove, so that as soon as foods are prepared they may be laid in or on the stove without a single waste step. The refrigerator or storage, the preparing table, the stove and another small serving table should all be regarded as part of one group or chain of steps at one side of the kitchen. At the opposite side, and kept separate, should be the stack table or drain to the right of the sink, next the sink, then the left drain, and at the extreme left, shelves or closet in which to lay away dishes. This plan of dividing the kitchen into two distinct processes—preparing and clearing away—permits the most step-saving and the least confusion.

Every piece of equipment should be set at the right height, so that the worker need neither stoop nor stretch unnecessarily. The sink is generally set too low. It should be placed at a height of 34 inches measured from the top of the roll rim to the floor; some women prefer even 36 inches. Tables and stoves which are too low may be blocked up. Ironing boards are frequently too low and thus necessitate great extra strain on the part of the worker. If possible all the working surfaces should be the same height, so that articles may be moved from one to the other with the least effort.

A dark kitchen is as much a bug-a-boo to the modern housekeeper as the old-fashioned roomy kitchen with its step-wasting area. Plenty of light is an absolute essential both to good work and the happiness of the worker. Windows set high in the wall give more light, more air, and do not have sills which act as "catch-alls." There should be adequate light on the preparing table, the stove and the sink. This is often best provided by windows on opposite sides of the room, thus insuring cross ventilation as well.

Many persons prefer the single central drop light in the kitchen, but there is much to be said in favor of two units, one throwing light over the sink and another over the stove and preparing table, so that the worker shall not stand in her own light. An excellent plan is to have a set of small window units over the sink, thus allowing plenty of air and light on the work. A transom window means better ceiling ventilation. Some kind of ventilating fan is often needed, such as the ventilator, which may be put in the flue; the register, which may be placed in the ceiling, or an electric fan.

No one item is so important as the color tones used in this workroom. Nothing like a dark blue, brown, bilious green or any shade which is depressive should be used. Excellent choices are warm gray, light apple green, cream, putty or a vivid blue or yellow. For all-around utility nothing beats the warm-gray or putty, both of which are good-looking, without involving the labor which a white kitchen is sure to entail. Painted wood and trim are much better than stained or varnished finishes.

The ideal wall for the kitchen is a hard finished coat of plaster, painted in oil finish, not the "flat," which is very difficult to keep clean. The base or wainscot may be of washable oilcloth or tile, but this is not necessary. Both the walls and the trim should be kept light, and the ceiling treated to a white coat of kalsomine each season.

Signs of Old Age

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

ARE you facing the fact that your neck is beginning to look old? Is the skin growing loose and flabby? Are the muscles sagging? Is the skin looking yellow and wrinkled? Is it no longer a source of pride and pleasure with you to wear a V-shaped or low-cut gown?

Do not despair, for the ageing neck is not an infallible sign of growing old. It is only one of them. And you have my assurance that you can make it look youthful again. For proof of this let me point you to the great singing teachers, yes, and the great singers who are their pupils. Almost every one of them—indeed, I can think of no exception, has a round, white, youthful-looking throat.

But while this is true, it is also true that you should begin giving the neck special attention before you are thirty. It were better if you began when you were twenty-five.

First, look to its careful feeding. Give it at least one good meal a day by rubbing cold cream liberally into the front of the neck at night before retiring.

Look very carefully to the poise of the head. If the head be held proudly, the chin up, the muscles of the neck will also be held firm. But if you permit the head to droop the neck muscles will share the sagging.

Never lie with the head high. One small pillow is enough for any one, except the insomniac. If you can dispense with the small, flat pillow and lie with the head and feet on a level, so much the better for the neck.

The neck thus trained, and with the additional training of deep breathing, learned by vocal lessons, should never grow old. I advise every woman to take vocal culture for herself, even though she have no liking for music, simply for the sake of the beauty of her neck.

But if these preventive measures have been neglected and the neck is losing its roundness and firm aspect, then you must have recourse to the great body builder, massage. There is a special massage for the neck and it must be intelligently given.

First, strengthen the chin muscles by pressing firmly upon them with the backs of the hands. Turn the hands, with the backs upward, and letting the finger tips meet beneath the middle of the chin, press with all your strength on the muscles of the chin, working backward and upward behind the ears to the hair-line.

Second, with the tips of the fingers quite meeting at the point of the collarbone in front, draw the hands with long, slow strokes upward to a point beneath the ears. This is a good muscle building movement.

Third, slap the neck smartly with the palms.

Fourth, "lift" the tendons at the side of the neck that are inclined to grow more prominent and ropy each year. This lifting consists in seizing the tendons in a firm grasp and seeming to raise them to meet the head. This is painful and may even cause a slight headache at first, but these are only Nature's protest against the unaccustomed. Even Nature is an old fogey about innovations.

Fifth, grasp the large muscles at the back of the neck and connecting the shoulders, and "lift" these also. Raise them as though it were your purpose to place them in the curve of the neck. This should be followed by a vigorous kneading of the muscles.

The aim of all these massage movements is to promote circulation in the neck. The yellowing, withered-looking skin denotes that the blood flows weakly in that part of the body. The flabby muscles indicate that the muscles have not been well exercised. A good developing exercise for the neck is to let the head lie back as far as possible on the shoulders, then roll slowly from one shoulder to the other.

The hands should be immersed in nourishing cold cream before "feeding" the throat muscles. This is one of my favorite formulas for a nutritious cold cream: Almond oil, 1½ ounces; lanolin, ½ ounce; spermaceti, ¼ ounce; witch hazel, ½ ounce; tincture of benzoin, ½ dram.

Avoid high, tight collars. Wear soft silk and muslin linings next the throat for black or colored collars. If it is necessary to wear costumes with high collars on the street, change them at once for collarless gowns when you are at home. They are much more becoming in every way and are infinitely better for the throat and neck.

Secrets of Beauty

THE upper part of my arms is much too large in proportion to the rest of them. I would like to know what to use to make them smaller.—E. P.

Heavy dumb-bell exercises are especially valuable for reducing the size of the upper arm. These exercises should be taken immediately after arising before an open window. Then massage the arms vigorously, using talcum powder instead of cream. Afterward give the arms a good salt scrub with cold water—as cold as you can bear it.

PLEASE tell me how to get rid of pimples, blackheads and awfully large pores in the skin. —A. B.

The alleviation of such blemishes in the skin can only be in proportion to the length of time they have endured, but if you will persevere in your efforts to get rid of them, you will surely accomplish the desired results. Remember that spasmodic attention is of very little value. Wash the face thoroughly at night with tepid water and a mild soap. Then apply some of this ointment and leave on over night:

Salicylic acid	50 grams
Pure lard	50 grams

To close the enlarged pores bathe the face daily with the following astringent lotion:

Rose water	6 ounces
Elderflower water	2 ounces
Tincture of benzoin	½ ounce
Tannic acid	5 grains

AM just five feet tall and weigh 135 pounds. Please tell me how I can reduce my bust and back as I am very stout there.—B. P. S.

You are only about fifteen pounds overweight. Try cutting down on your diet somewhat. Take a light lunch, or no lunch at all, for a time, and you will be surprised and delighted with the difference in your figure. Massage your back and bust daily with this, which is astringent in its effect and will help pull off the superfluous flesh:

Witch hazel	1 ounce
Rose water	1 ounce

I AM in a terribly anaemic condition. Do you know of a simple remedy for this?—I. M. G.

Besides an abundance of mild exercise in the open air, always stopping before you are tired, you should massage the face and body with nourishing oils such as lanolin and olive oil. You must also feed yourself generously with thickened broths and rich soups. Ham, bacon and mutton are great rebuilders of the weakened system, while butter should be freely eaten. For the anaemic, all kinds of fresh fish are nourishing. So are eggs, hominy, bread and cakes, as well as cornstarch and tapioca pudding.

Household Helps

Frying Doughnuts.

WHEN frying doughnuts drop a pared potato into the boiling grease to keep the fat from burning.

Dyeing Thread.

WHEN dyeing an article that is to be made over, it is a good scheme to color two spools of thread or silk at the same time, so they will be sure to match the material.

Saving a Penny.

WHEN your Welsbach burner becomes blackened its life and brilliancy may be prolonged by lighting it, turning the flame down low and then sprinkling a handful of salt over the burner. This absorbs the blackness and leaves the burner almost like new.

Smooth Gravy.

TO make smooth gravy put a tablespoonful of flour in the fat in the pan. Mix well and add water, stirring carefully until thoroughly cooked.

To Hemstitch Curtains.

CURTAINS may be easily hemstitched by pulling the usual number of threads, basting the hem to the far edge of the pulled threads and then stitching on the machine. Afterward pull the hem back to the near edge of the pulled threads.

Care of Poultry.

REMOVE wrapping paper as soon as the fowl is brought from the market. Cut off any tainted parts and place the fowl on a clean dish in the refrigerator. Wipe with a clean, moist cloth just before cooking.

Are Women Stronger Than Men?

By Rene Bache.

WOMEN are called the weaker sex—referring, of course, to their physique. But are they really weaker?

Muscularly, yes; that much must be conceded. Vitality, however, is more important than muscle, and in this respect women are undoubtedly superior to men.

The fact is easily proved. They live longer, as is shown by the longevity tables which are the basis of the business of insurance and annuity companies.

It is a matter of common observation that women endure with impunity exposures to cold which would be dangerous for most men—their clothing much less thick than men's in Winter, their shoes inadequate and often cut low in severe weather, etc.

Most women become mothers, thereby enduring frightful constitutional shocks which men do not encounter. Yet they live longer than men.

Take the case of 1,000 boy babies born on the same day. Let us suppose that you were one of them. When you were ten years of age how many of those babies were still in the land of the living? Less than three-fourths of the whole original number. More than 25 per cent were dead. Only 733 survived.

But take 1,000 girl babies, all born on the same day. Seven hundred and sixty-six of them will survive to celebrate their tenth birthday. Here is a difference of thirty-three survivals, or over 3 per cent in favor of the girls.

But, again, let us suppose that you were a boy baby. You went to school and afterward to college. You are now getting along in years, and every now and then your mail brings you a black-edged card from the secretary of your college class notifying you of the demise of a classmate.

"We certainly are passing off the stage," you say to yourself, rather gloomily. But, then, it occurs to you to remember that this passing-off business began as far back as your freshman year, when at least one or two of your classmates died. Indeed, it could not be said to have begun then, for deaths occurred now and then in the prep school.

If a man finds himself still alive at fifty years of age he may consider himself a lucky survivor, for very nearly half of the male babies born on the day of his own birth have already passed away. To be exact, only 518 male infants, out of every 1,000, born into the world are destined to see their fiftieth birthday.

But how is it with girl babies? The longevity tables show that, out of 1,000 of them, 564 will live to be fifty years old. The difference there means the survival, at that age, of forty-six more women.

It is very interesting to contemplate the case of 1,000 average human beings born on the same day, and to observe how their departure from the world is regulated. But in considering the problem it is better to separate the sexes, because women live longer than men. What biologists call their "viability"—their power to survive—is greater.

About 104 boy babies are born for every 100 girl babies, but the boy babies die so much faster than the girl babies that at the end of one year the surviving girls outnumber the surviving boys. They have a better hold on life.

But let us consider 1,000 babies, born on the same day, taking one sex at a time. When twenty years have passed 713 out of an original 1,000 boy babies will be alive and grown to manhood. But 744 out of 1,000 girl babies will reach twenty years of age.

When the surviving girls are thirty years old 700 of them will be living. But only 669 of the boys will reach that age, approximately one-third of their number "losing out" in the life game before they get that far along.

At forty years 639 of the girls will survive, but only 605 of the boys. At fifty there will still be 564 of the girls living—rather old girls by this time—against 518 old boys. At sixty there will still be living 468 of these old girls, but only 398 of the boys. The boys have taken a slump. At seventy there will be only 239 of the boys left, but of the girls there will be 299.

At eighty there will be 115 aged women to represent the original 1,000 girl babies, but only eighty of the boy babies will be hobbling around and complaining of their aches and pains. At ninety there will be thirteen old crones left alive, but only seven decrepit and toothless old men waiting for the grave to swallow them up.

A famous mathematician once published a formula for reckoning any person's "expectation of life"—supposing, of course, that the person at the time is not suffering from any mortal disease. You want to know how long you may reasonably expect to live. Well, then, subtract your present age from eighty-six, divide the remainder by two, and you have the number of years that are likely to be before you. Thus, if you are forty years old, the remainder is forty-six; divide by two, and you have twenty-three more years.

But if you are a woman you must add three or four years, because women, on an average, live that much longer than men.

For Company Dinners

By Mary Lee Swann,
The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Oysters on Half Shell.

SERVE to each person six choice oysters on deep halves of shell. Arrange on plates of crushed ice. Place ¼ lemon in centre of each plate.

Oyster Cocktail.

PICK over and rinse ½ dozen small oysters. Mix with ½ tablespoon tomato catsup, ¼ teaspoon lemon juice, 1 drop tabasco sauce, pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon finely chopped celery and ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Chill and serve. This amount is sufficient for one person.

Sardine Cocktail.

REMOVE bones and skin from 1 small box of choice sardines. Pick sardines into flakes. Mix with ¼ cup tomato catsup, ⅔ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon tabasco sauce, juice of 1 lemon and a pinch of salt. Chill thoroughly and serve in small tomato shells in bed of lettuce leaves or scallop shells placed on a bed of crushed ice.

Smoked Salmon Canapes.

SLICE smoked salmon as thinly as possible. Cut rounds ¼ inch thick from stale bread and fry in a little butter until delicately browned. Cut salmon same size and place on bread. Decorate with sifted hard-cooked egg white, finely chopped green pepper and finely chopped pimento.

Savory Canapes.

PASS ½ cup cooked ham and ½ cup cooked chicken through the food chopper, and pound to a paste with ½ cup butter, 1½ tablespoons chutney, salt and pepper to taste, and a pinch of curry powder if desired. Spread on rounds of bread which have been fried in a little batter. Afrange a narrow border of finely chopped or sifted egg white and yolk.

Engagement Luncheon Canapes

CUT heart-shaped pieces about ¼ inch thick from stale bread. Brush slightly with butter and brown delicately. Drain canned pimentoes and dry them thoroughly. Cut out heart-shaped pieces with cutter used for bread hearts. Fry them in a little butter until delicately browned. Place the pimento hearts on the toast hearts. Arrange a narrow edge of finely chopped parsley all around the pimento and serve very hot.

Roquefort Celery.

WASH and scrape tender stalks of celery. Beat Roquefort cheese until creamy and pack it into celery stalks. Sprinkle cheese lightly with finely chopped olives, pimentoes or green cucumber pickles.

Baked Oysters.

SELECT choice oysters on the half shell, allowing 5 or 6 to each person. Place them in a baking pan and on each oyster place a tiny piece of bacon. Bake in a rather quick oven until the edges of the oysters curl and the oysters themselves are plump. Garnish with lemon and parsley.

Crab Flake Cocktail.

WASH 6 green peppers and cut in halves crosswise. Remove veins and seeds and place in icebox to chill. Mix 6 tablespoons tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon grated horseradish, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 6 tablespoons lemon juice and a pinch of salt. Pour into green pepper cups. Arrange pepper cups (allowing one to each serving) on heart lettuce leaves, place crab flakes around each cup, chill and serve.

Tomato Canapes.

CUT rounds ¼ inch thick from stale bread and toast on one side. Spread untoasted side with butter which has been beaten until creamy and seasoned with anchovy paste. Then cover with a thick slice of peeled ripe tomato and spread the tomato evenly with well-seasoned mayonnaise dressing. Sprinkle with sifted egg yolk and then with sifted egg white. Garnish round edge with thin ring of green pepper and place a slice of olive and a tiny sprig of parsley in the centre of each canape.

White Fruit Cocktail.

WASH, skin, cut in halves and remove seeds from choice white grapes, or stone and slice canned white cherries. Remove larger pieces of grape fruit pulp, freed from white portion of the skin. Combine equal parts of the grapes or cherries and the grape fruit pulp and set in icebox to chill. Place in crystal cocktail glasses and sprinkle with powdered sugar. If the cocktail is to be served during the Christmas season garnish with maraschino cherries or place a sprig of holly on the plate holding the cocktail glass.

TAXIED NC-5 THROUGH GALE

Commander Tells Of Experience In Storm That Wrecked Seaplane

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—Lieutenant H. V. Baugh, commander of the seaplane NC-5, which was wrecked and sunk when it ran into a hurricane last Saturday about forty miles north of this city during its attempted flight from San Diego, Cal., to Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, told of his experiences today. The seaplane was one of the twelve which left San Diego December 30 for the canal Zone.

"When we ran into the hurricane on Saturday our engine was giving trouble," he said. "The wind was blowing about forty-five miles an hour and the plane was flung about like a boy's kite. Eventually it fluttered to the surface of the sea about twenty miles from land. We 'taxied' to the beach under tremendous difficulties in the very teeth of the storm, striking the coast twenty-five miles north of Gigante, where the NC-6 also arrived eventually after radiographing to the ships following us the position of the NC-5.

"The Kanawah arrived and took the NC-5 in tow, later handing it over to the destroyer Munford. The latter took the crew aboard and continued towing the seaplane. The line parted frequently owing to the heavy sea, however, the NC-5 eventually sinking."

It combines the efficiency of a "Grandfather" pendulum with a 4" case. 7. Variations due to atmospheric changes are reduced to a minimum because the centre of gravity is within an eighth of an inch of the centre of motion. 8. The pivots of the compound pendulum, rolling in their curved recess, cause the pendulum to describe a cycloidal arc. 9. It cannot get out of beat. 10. There are no keys to lose. 11. There are no springs to break. 12. The design of the escapement reduces friction to the minimum. 13. The clock itself is its own driving power. 14. It shows at a glance when it needs winding. 15. The driving force is constant. 16. The design lends itself to new varieties of artistic treatment. 17. It requires no oil. 18. An extraordinary reduction of strain on working parts, giving long life.

The Swedish Association

WHILE Europe writhes in the throes of its new crisis, let us pause briefly to consider the case of Sweden, whose representatives in this portion of the Far East met in Shanghai last Friday to organise The Swedish Association in China. Under the auspices of the Swedish Consul General, Baron Akerheilm, the association was brought into being. It is to represnt out here the calm, compact and progressive race whose emigrants have done so much for the development of Minnesota, one of the most progressive states of America. But aside from that, and entirely on its own, we desire to extend our greetings and good wishes to the new association, which is to reflect and be representative of all that is best, not only for Sweden, not only for China, but for the world at large, as viewed from the vantage point of historical experience, in which particular category few races remain to teach the Swedes anything.

The Swedish race not only remains, but after unforgettable triumphs and set backs, it is coming on better than ever. In a hundred years it has raised the stature of its men an average of two inches. In Sweden there is no such thing as illiteracy. It will be important for Baron Akerheilm and his associates to tell us out here how these things were accomplished. Greater strength, greater height, greater knowledge. They are all important here and everywhere.

We might put it this way:

Greater height, greater strength.

Greater knowledge, greater power.

Yet Sweden is a small country, as the world counts. The trouble lies with the world, not with Sweden. The world doesn't count right. Sweden, for instance, after wandering over and conquering a large part of Northern Europe, has learned to stay at home, except in the matter of sending her official and commercial representatives abroad. But meanwhile the brains and stamina of her emigrants score for her in whatever land they choose. Not only that, they strengthen every such fortunate land.

According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the Swedes "are more light-hearted and vivacious than the Norwegians." We don't propose to discuss this question. Doubtless both races will become light-hearted over the comparison. We leave it to them. The Danes are supposed to be melancholy (in some high, literary circles) but we never have encountered a melancholy Dane.

Baron Akerheilm recently sent us two fat volumes about Sweden, and although we did not find any of the foregoing matter in them, we did find the following, which we commend to notice:

In regard to population, which is one of the most serious questions facing Europe at present, the figures in these volumes go to show the soundness of the people. Emigration has from time to time upset the balance, but the excess of births over deaths has greatly increased in comparison with earlier times. For the period 1701-1750 it was 3.85 per 1,000., for 1901-1910, it was 10.89. Proportionately also the showing is good. For every 100 deaths there are about 173 births, this figure only being passed by Norway 194 and Denmark 196, while the rest of Europe averages 155.

In regard to the Army, we find that at present there are about 600,000 men liable to be called up in case of war. The training is intensive and very thorough. The sole object of the Army is stated to be "the maintenance of neutrality and the successful defence of the liberty and independence of Sweden." If all armies had that object. But then, to read on: The organisation is based on universal conscription and there is no possibility of buying oneself off or paying for a substitute.

The liability to military service begins at 20 and ends at 49—not because of anything Sweden wants, but because there are big, military, nations.

Commissions are granted to youths who have passed the University Matriculation and subsequently had 2½ years' training in various military institutions. An important supplement to the regular army training is found in the Volunteer Rifle Corps. Rifle Clubs are formed in various districts and these are joined to Rifle Unions; or the latter there are 26 composed of some 2,300 Rifle Unions, which are state subsidised to the amount of 975,000 kr. per year.

But when it comes to the matter of religion, there is no trouble in Sweden. From the religious standpoint the Swedes are the most homogeneous people in the world. There is hardly 1 in 1,000 who not profess the protestant faith and 99 percent belong to the Swedish Lutheran Church. Ever since the reformation, protestantism seems to have been one of the moving principles underlying Swedish politics and though freedom in religious matters is widely established, the law does not allow the introduction of orders of monks or nuns within the kingdom. A peculiar principle is followed in regard to support, viz., that every Swedish citizen must support financially some religious body and likewise must in some measure contribute to the upkeep of the Swedish Church. The clergy undergo a fairly severe training. After passing the University Matriculation they take an average 5 years course at one of the two universities Uppsala or Lund. A new scheme started in 1910 abolished disproportionate remuneration and instituted fixed stipends supplemented according to acreage and population of the benefice. There is no pension scheme, but widows and children are provided for.

In Education Sweden has devised an extremely thorough and extensive system, two years in the infant school and four in the Elementary form, the obligatory elementary school course, and of these elementary schools there are more than 15,340 in the Kingdom. No fees are charged and the expenditure is drawn partly from the state and partly from the parishes.

Abnormal children seem to be well provided for, schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, mentally defective and crippled all exist and reformatories for the depraved largely take the form of "protective homes" for those under 15 years of age, though the ordinary institution exists for the older boys and girls.

The secondary education branches into two lines. First the "real skola" with a 6 years course culminating in the "real skolexamen," its aim being to provide a common citizens' education of wide scope. Then the "Gymnasium" which follows on the first 5 years of the "real skola" and consists of a four year course culminating in the "Studentexamen" and preparing for the University or equivalent educational establishments.

In conclusion, one further point is of interest in view of present world conditions. Sweden has for some years felt the difficulties of the Housing question. About twenty years ago the "own home" movement was started, its aim to provide facilities for persons of small means to establish homes of their own. Various legislative measures had to be taken to remove existing obstacles as to the division of estates, culminating in the Government Bill of 1909 which by checking speculation and giving easier rates of payment greatly assisted the movement.

Loans are made by the state to those wishing for homes of their own, not directly, but either through the Provincial Agricultural Societies or others which have given guarantees to the state.

In 1905 ten million Kr. was voted for this purpose. And a vote of five million for each of the years 1909-1913. These proved inadequate and the vote for 1913 was increased by a further 2½ million and 7½ million were voted for 1914.

The above are only a few details of Swedish national life selected from an immense array of facts and figures and the volumes may be confidently recommended to those interested in comparative study of National life and progress.

"Omnium consenu capax imperii."

So said Tacitus of Galba—and being interpreted it means "By consent of all he was fit to govern."

Wilson has surrendered the guidance of the Ship of State to Harding. After eight strenuous years, he once more goes back to the world where he is one of the many, rather than the one man of all.

Few of us, British or American, could read of his farewell from office; of his appearance before that great multitude, cheering their appreciation of his great works; of his shaking his head; unable to speak his thoughts, without feeling a catch at the throat, and sensing a moistening of the eye.

His great work is over. He is an ordinary citizen again. And yet as the years pass, and we are able to get farther and farther away from the blurring chaos of the times, we shall be able to see more clearly the greatness of Woodrow Wilson.

Eight searing years he steered
the Ship of State,
Each year he brought her nearer to the land
Where storm and strife no terrors can command.
His efforts for her weal did ne'er abate.
(His worth is left for History to relate.)
And now he leaves the helm
to other guides—
Leaves it to them—and god!
To Hope confides,
(With most dangers past)
charts of rocks ahead,
The charts that lead them to the Haven Fair,
Where tempests are no more,
where strife is dead,
Where nations are as one, in friendship wed.
Tireless in war, yet of a peace innate
The ages unborn will proclaim him great.

When the terrible World War began, Woodrow Wilson was placed in as difficult a position as any statesman ever stood. Millions of his own people clamored to take sides with the Allies; millions more prayed that he would see eye to eye with the ambitions of the Central Powers. Where many a weaker man would have been swayed one way or the other he stood firm. He was the Big Man, who saw that his country was not ready to enter the great conflict. Whether there were shot or shell enough did not matter; whether there were ships enough did not matter; whether there were men enough did not matter. He put up with the jibes of the thoughtless; the curses of the fanatics. He was waiting for the time that his countrymen saw, one and all, the justice of the Allies' fight. Like the great educationist he is, he stayed his hand until the psychological moment arrived, and then threw every resource of a United State into the conflict.

And all through the smoke of battle he saw a vision of a League of Nations, and a time when wars would be no more. In the shrieking of the shells he was able to discern the still, small voice which whispered "Peace on Earth, goodwill towards men."

Wolsey's advice to Cromwell, when he had run his course, is applicable to all great patriots.

Love thyself last: cherish those hearts that hate thee;
Corruption wins not more than honesty.
Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,
To silence envious tongues.
Be just and fear not:
Let all the ends thou aim'st at
be thy country's,
Thy God's and Truth's.

"Men in great place are thrice servants—servants of the sovereign or state, servants of fame, and servants of business; so as they have no freedom, neither in their persons nor in their actions, nor in their times.

"It is a strange desire to seek power and lose liberty; or to seek power over others and lose power over a man's self. The rising into place is laborious, and by pains men come to greater pains; and it is sometimes base, and by indignities men come to dignities. The standing is slippery, and the recess is either a downfall, or at least an eclipse, which is a melancholy thing.

Tramways and Traffic Problems

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—On January 25 last I delivered an address at a meeting of the Civic League entitled "A Brief Review of Some of Shanghai's Civic Problems" in the course of which, referring to traffic problems, I made the statement in respect of the tramways that the service was open to severe criticism and far inferior to that of other cities, Hongkong for example. The management took exception to this statement and provided me with such complete information in support of their objection that I am in all fairness to the Tramway Company obliged to admit that it is well taken, and will be much obliged if you will afford this letter the publicity of your columns as in the case of the address referred to.

It is not possible to give in this letter even a resume of the information I have obtained. It has, however, led me to conclude that it is hardly possible for the company to do more than it is now doing with the rail service, having regard to the governing road conditions, and the public is aware, from published correspondence, of the company's comprehensive proposals for extensions of the railless system.

I am convinced that with the roads as they are in Shanghai it is impossible to solve the traffic problem with the rail system, and to characterise the present rail service as inferior vis-a-vis other rail services because of that fact is, in effect, to blame the service of the lack of foresight on the part of those originally responsible for the extraordinary shape of the settlement area, the lack of any organised scheme when the roads were originally planned, the marked shortage of length of road in proportion to the area and to the population, and the narrow, tortuous and unco-ordinated character of the roads.

As the matter of traffic conditions is of urgent importance to the entire community, the Civic League has invited Mr. Donald McColl, General Manager of the Tramway Company, to give a public address on the subject of Tramways and Traffic Problems. To this he has agreed, and a public meeting will be announced as soon as it can conveniently be arranged for. I am, etc.

A. J. HUGHES.

Foochow, Feb. 28, 1921.

Sir.—I am enclosing herewith for your information an article I have written with reference to Foochow, which, judging by the remarks made by recent visitors, appears to bear the unfortunate reputation outside of this port of being a place to be avoided by travellers on business or pleasure bent on account of its so-called inaccessibility, commercial decline and lack of places and things interesting.

My sole reason for sending it to you is to place before you information which may be interesting to you and helpful to this port.

If you can see your way clear to do so, I would appreciate your printing this article or a resume of the same in your esteemed publication. Very respectfully yours,

G. C. HANSEN.

American Consul.

(ENCLOSURE)

There appears to be spread abroad a considerable amount of misinformation at the present time in regard to Foochow, Fukien Province, China, especially pertaining to transportation facilities to and from this port and to local accommodations. This misinformation having a detrimental effect upon Foochow.

It has been found that foreigners stayed longer than they had originally planned because they found conditions extremely pleasant. They have admitted that they looked upon a trip to Foochow with more or less dread as they had been informed by steamship companies and tourist agencies at Hongkong and Shanghai that this port was difficult to reach and to leave and that there was practically nothing worth while doing or seeing from a business or pleasure seeking standpoint after one had arrived. Hence many people, who might have come to Foochow, if they had been correctly informed, have been deprived of a pleasant and, perhaps, profitable trip. Those brave enough to face the so-called difficulties, have come and have gone on their several ways rejoicing.

It is believed that there are two principal causes for the unkindly remarks made about Foochow. One is that the impression has gone abroad that the trade of Foochow has withered away because the tea trade conducted by foreign firms with foreign countries has practically disappeared. There has been a terrific slump in this branch of the tea trade, but the value of the total general trade of the port has, generally speaking, been taking an upward trend during the past few years. The Maritime Customs Returns show that the trade passing through the Maritime Customs during 1919 amounted to Haikwan Taels 20,740,234 and during 1920 amounted to Haikwan Taels 25,612,810. The trade carried by junks to and from other Chinese ports is large and is constantly increasing. The other cause is that steamers do not come up to the bund at Foochow but are forced on account of the shallowness of the Min River between Foochow and Pagoda Anchorage to anchor at the latter place, which is nine miles distant from this city.

The Min River Conservancy Board is at present engaged in making it possible for coasting steamers to navigate the Min River up to Foochow. But at the present time, visitors will find many comfortable launches owned by local firms and official organisations plying between Pagoda Anchorage and Foochow. The trip from the Anchorage to the city only takes from one to one and a half hours, according to the tide. The water is seldom rough and the short run is spent in viewing as delightful scenery as can be found along any of South China's rivers.

The Douglas line has a steamer leave Hongkong for Swatow, Amoy and Foochow every Tuesday and Friday. The steamer leaving Tuesday arrives at Pagoda Anchorage on the following Friday and leaves Pagoda Anchorage for Amoy, Swatow and Hongkong on the following Sunday. The steamer leaving Hongkong on Friday arrives at Pagoda Anchorage on the following Tuesday and leaves for Hongkong on the following Tuesday. These steamers are confortable. The China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. Ltd., operates two fairly good steamers, under foreign captains, and the San Peh Steamship Co. operates one good steamer under a foreign captain, between Shanghai and Foochow on fairly regular schedules. These two companies also have steamers that touch Foochow at irregular times. The Osaka Shosen Kaisha has three of its steamers that touch regularly at Foochow on the run via Shanghai between South Manchuria and Formosan ports. The establishments Brossard Mopin has two steamers running Tientsin and Saigon, each steamer touching at Foochow once every three weeks. Attempts are being made to improve the services between Foochow and Shanghai. From the above it will be seen that Foochow is not so inaccessible as appears to be generally believed.

There are no foreign hotels at Foochow, but foreign travellers can always secure very good rooms and meals at the home of Mr. H. S. Brand, an old resident, or at Brocketts' Boarding House. Visitors who have acquaintances at Foochow or who bring letters of introduction to local residents always find a warm welcome here and are usually entertained as house guests. Such visitors should either write or telegraph in regard to the dates and steamers upon which they expect to arrive in order that their friends here may be able to provide launches other than the regular steamship company launches (which are very good) for the trip on the Min River.

The "Directory and Chronicle for China and Japan" is quoted with reference to the scenery in this vicinity:

"The scenery surrounding Foochow is very beautiful. In sailing up the Min river from the sea vessels have to leave the wide stream and enter what is called the Kimpai Pass, which is barely half-a-mile across, and enclosed as it is by bold, rocky walls, it presents a very striking appearance. The Pass of Min-ngan is narrower, and with its towering cliffs, surmounted by fortifications and cultivated terraces, is extremely picturesque, and has been compared to some of the scenes on the Rhine. The Yung Fu (Yungtai), a tributary of the Min, also affords some charming scenery, the hills rising very abruptly from the river bank. The Min Monastery, the Moon Temple, and the Kushan Monastery, all occupying most romantic and beautiful sites, are fine specimens of Chinese religious edifices, and are much resorted to by visitors. Game abounds in all the ravines and mountains in the vicinity of Foochow, while tigers and panthers are common in the more remote hills, and some of these beasts have been killed within ten miles of the city."

Most of the foreign homes in Foochow are very large and comfortable and surrounded by beautiful gardens blooming practically the year around. The Foochow Recreation Club has five grass tennis courts and a good nine hole golf course. The Foochow Club occupies a commodious building, is well furnished, keeps up a good library and has a congenial atmosphere.

The native city is clean and well lighted by electricity. The shops present a prosperous appearance and those producing the lacquerware for which Foochow is famous are well worth visiting.

Foochow is the center of a vast amount of missionary activity and possesses many schools and colleges given over to the education of Chinese boys and girls. Visitors interested in educational work among the Chinese would find much to attract their attention in this respect.

The foreign population of Foochow is steadily increasing as is the number of foreign firms located here. This fact coupled with the increase in general trade is sufficient to prove that Foochow is not the moribund port outside reports would lead one to believe.

It is believed that enough has been stated above to show that Foochow is a port to visit rather than to avoid. Experience has proved that visitors are agreeably surprised and pleased upon arriving and remaining here for a few days. It is hoped that steamship companies, tourist agencies and publications will be more favorable in the future in their reports given out concerning Foochow, a port that deserves much more praise than condemnation

SHANGHAI'S OPIUM PROBLEM

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: In your issue of March 1, 1921 you published an article entitled, "Publicity Fight Against Opium Is Planned Here." I wish to point out that Article 271 of the Chinese Provisional Criminal Code, which is usually enforced in this Settlement, provides: "Any person who smokes opium shall be liable to penal servitude for a term of the fifth degree, confinement, or a fine not exceeding 100 yuan." Article 275 provides: "Any person who commits any of the offences under Articles 266 to 272 may upon conviction thereof be deprived of his civil rights: any public officer who commits any such offence shall be removed from such office in addition to the deprivation of civil rights."

The sale and smoking of opium is increasing in this settlement to such an extent that a strict investigation is necessary. The smoking of opium is heavily penalised in purely Chinese courts. In this Settlement the police do not prosecute such offenders and when opium smoking comes to the knowledge of the Mixed Court in connection with other cases the court takes no notice of the opium smoking. The result is obvious. Opium smokers leave the interior and take up their residence in our crowded Settlement. A huge demand is created for the sale of opium.

Your article states that the campaign is directed against individuals INCLUDING OFFICIALS. Is not this the key to the sale and smoking of opium in this Settlement? The Anti-Opium Association must have evidence against our Chinese officials to launch a campaign against officials. My suggestion is: Let the Association present the evidence to the Consular Body in a petition that will be made public. Public opinion will do the rest. Then the Chinese judges of our courts will administer the opium laws and the sale and smoking of opium will decrease.

Yours faithfully,

M. Wrench.

Far East News Notes

NEW YORK JOURNAL CITES JAPAN'S BANS

A special "Japan Number" of the Nation magazine of New York is on sale at Kelly and Walsh's at Yokohama. It seems that the cause for this "Special Edition," dedicated to Japan, lies in the fact that 150 copies of the Nation for last October were seized at that time by the Yokohama Police on the grounds that the magazine contained matter which made it necessary that the magazine be suppressed.

According to reports, the article which caused the Yokohama police to investigate was merely one on the I.W.W., explanatory of the great activity of the organisation. The Nation in issuing the "Special Edition" comments that, "a little suppression now and then is relished by the best of circulation managers." The Nation comments upon the "serious affair" in the following manner:

"This business of attempting to suppress thinking goes on in Japan much as it did in America during the war and in the post-war days of the Palmerian persecutions. The Japanese police, so the Japan Chronicle reports, recently raided a Yokohama bookshop and seized 150 copies of the Nation for October 20, containing an article on the I.W.W. The article, as the Chronicle says, was 'merely an endeavor to prove that the I.W.W. was not so black as it was painted,' and the Japanese paper cannily comments that "the seizure will be a splendid advertisement for the Nation and will make the Yokohama police the laughter-stock of the world.' The Nation earnestly hopes that the Chronicle is right on both counts; a little suppression now and then is relished by the best of circulation managers."

REVOLUTION IN JAPAN IS FORECAST OF EDITOR

Discussing the possibility of a revolution in Japan, Mr. Osugi, a noted radical and editor of the Labor Movement, declares that it is within sight. Mr. Osugi says:

"Just before the outbreak of the revolution in Russia, a Japanese consul sent home a report eulogising the Romanoff dynasty. If the Japanese consul at that time had been told that the Russian Empire was on the verge of a revolution, he would have dismissed the suggestion as coming from a crazy mind.

"Even Chinese did not think that the first revolution, which upset the autocratic regime, would come so soon. No one thought the year before that it would break out the following year.

"About 20 years ago Mr. Isoo Abe forecasted that the revolution would break out 100 years hence, if it came at all. Mr. Abe was believed by the majority of the socialists. He was challenged by Mr. Shusui Kotoku, who declared that the revolution would come 50 years hence.

"Both Mr. Abe and Mr. Kotoku made their forecasts, not because they had firm conviction, but because they based their prophesies on sentiment.

"We believe in the theory of 20 years. In thinking so we differ from the rest of socialists. Every anarchist who is well posted on the conditions here, however, will agree with us. The Japanese Empire will go through a revolution at the end of 20 years.

"Mr. Ozaki, former leader of the Kenseikai, says that Japan will be revolutionised five years hence. We have no reason to refute the theory of Mr. Ozaki. Perhaps he may be right."

Jules Verne's Romantic Puzzle Revived—How Man Going Around World In An Eastward Direction Gains Day On His Journey

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Famous Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"To settle an argument will you kindly answer the following? A claims that a man starting from New York and going eastward around the world would gain a day when the trip was finished. B claims that he would neither gain nor lose a day no matter in which direction the trip was taken.—S. N. J."

Obviously the answer to this question is not "obvious," as some persons rather superciliously assume it to be, for otherwise it would not so often be asked, or so frequently made the subject of an argument.

In this particular case, however, as generally happens in such arguments, it is probable that "A" and "B" are trying to row against one another while seated in two different boats so that each goes his own way without affecting the progress of the other—and so both are right, each in his own sense. It is a question of what each really means by "gaining a day." The difficulty is easily disentangled with a little care.

The traveller going eastward goes against the sun, and consequently, if his watch continues to keep New York time, the sun will rise and cross the meridian at a little earlier hour each successive day.

This gain will be made at the rate of about four minutes for every degree of longitude that he progresses in an eastward direction, and since there are 360 degrees in the circuit of the earth, by the time he has come round to the starting point again, he will have gained 360 times 4 minutes, or just 24 hours in the aggregate.

Another way to put it is that, by moving continually so as to meet the sun he shortens each day (according to his watch) by four minutes of time, provided that during that day he travels one degree eastward, and if he travels less than one degree he shortens the day by a proportionate amount.

A DAY GAINED

In either event, no matter how long or how short the length of the journey, when he has made a complete circuit, he will have gained one complete day on his watch, i.e. he will be one day ahead by New York time, and when he arrives in New York, unless he has changed his reckoning, as travelers habitually do, in such cases, to accord with the local times, or with the sun dial time, he will find that the people there are one day behind him in their date.

If he went around the earth westwardly instead of eastwardly, he would, in the same manner, lose one complete day, because every day the sun would rise later, by his watch, at the rate of four minutes for each degree of longitude.

This phenomenon is the nub of Jules Verne's celebrated story of 'Around the World in Eighty days." His hero goes round the earth eastward from London on a bet that he can complete the trip in eighty days. But, forgetting, or not thinking of, the principle that we have been describing, he believes on returning home that he has lost the bet by being one day late, whereas, as he discovers just in time to save his fortune, he has in reality gained a day and so won the bet. As Verne picturesquely puts it in the story:

"While Phineas Fogg, going eastward, saw the sun pass the meridian eighty times his friends in London saw it pass only seventy-nine times."

But—and here is very likely the point that "B" has in mind in "S. N. J's" question—in absolute time reckoning (if there be any absolute time there is neither loss nor gain, for the same number of moments of absolute time have elapsed for those who stayed at home in New York, or in in London, as for the traveler who went round the earth.

Suppose that Phineas Fogg made his journey on the planet Mars instead of on the earth, and that you, with a super-telescope, watched him. If he went eastward around Mars, whose period of rotation differs but little from that of the earth, he would gain time on his watch at practically the same rate that the traveler on the earth did, and having come back to his starting point, say the "Syrtis Major" of Martian geography, he would find himself one day ahead of his fellow Martians who had remained at home on the shore of the Syrtis Major.

NO SUCH DIFFERENCE

But for you, watching the whole performance from the earth, there would be no such difference between the time apparently elapsed for the traveler and for the stay-at-homes on Mars. If you marked by your time the exact moment of his setting out, and kept tab on him, you would mentally perceive that he must be gaining on his watch at the rate of four minutes per degree of Martian longitude, but the deceptive nature of the gain would be perfectly evident to you, for you would, as it were, see on the face of your own watch that the duration of absolute time while the journey was in progress was the same for the traveler as for his friends at home.

In the case of Mars, we have a planet whose fundamental time unit is but slightly different from ours, that unit being for each the period of one rotation of the planet on its axis; but on Jupiter we should find a widely different unit for Jupiter's period of rotation is under ten hours.

Thus, every planet has its own time scheme, and it is a very interesting question what ideas about time people would, or could, have who lived on a world which neither rotated on its axis nor traveled around the sun.

American Liquidator Quits Work In Vienna

Says He Is Disgusted With The Procrastination Of The Reparation Commission

Vienna, Jan. 19.—Edmund A. Whitman, American liquidator of the Austro-Hungarian Bank, leaves Vienna for Boston next Friday. Whitman gave me the following reasons for his withdrawal.

"I am thoroughly disgusted with my experience, finding that I was unable to continue work according to my plans. My work might have been finished early in the Spring but for the policy of procrastination prevailing in the Reparations Commission in Paris, who seem unable to agree on any question.

"Altogether Europe, differing from America, seems still inspired by feelings of war raher than of peace as in America. Meantime Austria must suffer terribly from some unfair provisions of the peace treaty."

Washington, Jan. 20.—Disposition of the Austrian situation created by the threatened collapse of the Government may not be made by the allied Powers without consultation with the United States, it was indicated today at the State Department. The question has been discussed by the Reparations Commission on which the United States has a representative, but how far the United States is prepared to join in any plan for the stabilisation of Austria has not been indicated.

Withdrawal of the United States from the Council of Ambassadors and its refusal to send a representative to the meeting of premiers at which the Austrian question is expected to be discussed has given the impression that the American Government will continue its attitude of aloofness.

Arch Criminals Win Berliners' Sympathy

Emil Strauss, One Of The Two Brothers, Startles Court-room Crowd

Berlin, Jan. 21.—With the white shoulder straps on their prison clothes designating persons accused of murder, two tall, slender men, aged 32 and 25, respectively, appeared today in the Berlin Criminal Court where they were released from their handcuffs, while simultaneously heavy chains were fixed around their ankles to prevent their escape. They were Berlin's most-talked-of burglars, Emil and Erich Strauss.

Both have very intelligent faces, which, though of prison pallor, give no indication of a life of crime. Their criminal record, however, is long and astonishingly varied, ranging from picking pockets to repeated murders. Only a short while ago the two brothers killed a police Sergeant and wounded another who tried to rearrest them after they had broken jail.

Emil, the elder brother, appeared to be too proud to deny any accusations and would not plead for mercy. When asked by the presiding judge to tell the story of his life, he astonished everybody present by eloquence, cleverness and complacency far above his education. He never permitted the judge to interrupt him, but went on unabashed with his story.

He told of his mother, who, he said, drove him out when he was 7 years old, unbreakfasted, on cold Winter mornings before school to carry newspapers for a drunken father, who compelled him to commit all kinds of crime when he was hardly 10. Later his foster mother, appointed by law, made him assist young girls to escape from asylums that she might sell them to houses of vice. So this boy grew old in crime before his years.

If of his 32 years he has spent only fourteen years in prison, it has been because no prison could hold him. He nearly always escaped.

"Now, your Honor," Emil concluded, "who is to blame more, those who created the circumstances in which I grew up, or myself personally?"

The audience, which crowded the courtroom to suffocation, sided noisily with the prisoner and cared little for the judge's threat to clear the hall. Indeed, at one time it seemed that the strong guard of soldiers would have hard work to keep the tremendous crowd outside from rushing the Court House.

In the audience were numerous members of a burglars' club called the Roland. Some crowded between the spectacled judges from other courts and fashionable women from Kurfurstendam, who applauded poetry by Emil Strauss as read by his counsel. At a given signal the members of the Roland Club disappeared, fearing arrest.

The case continues.

A FLAMING DRAMA OF THE POWER OF GOLD. THRILLING WITH ACTION

bought her gowns and diamonds.

MONEY—
bought her soul.

New York's upper and lower social strata furnish the background for this colorful drama of those who market the souls of weak men and women for gold. It is a high-class melodrama in which figure the rich man who is the underworld king; a fighting newspaper reporter; a weak and wayward girl; another girl who offsets the evil of ill-gotten money by deeds of charity; a reformed crook; a Chinaman with a self-sacrificing love for a white girl; a loving mother, and a hero-worshiping boy.

Herein is blended romance that is exquisite in its unselfishness, intrigue that is sinister, dangerous and powerful, and humor that is wholesome and natural, making a drama that touches the heart with its tenderness, baffles the brain with its intrigue, and satisfies the temperament of those who crave adventure.

Do men, who change the souls of weak men and women into money, pay the price like their victims?
